Accessible Housing options
University Housing and Residential Life is dedicated to the inclusion of students with a disability in all its activities, programs and services. In collaboration with Disability Resources and Services (DRS), a broad range of accessible housing options have been reserved for eligible undergraduate, professional and graduate students.

DRS uses an individualized process to establish reasonable accommodations on the basis of a discussion with the student and a review of all supporting information provided. Student requests for accommodations must be supported by documentation that relates the current impact of a student's disability and/or condition to the request being made. Requests for disability-related housing accommodations are considered on a case-by-case basis.

Students are encouraged to review the guidelines for this documentation at http://disabilityresources.temple.edu/documentation. DRS will evaluate requests within five weeks of receiving this documentation. Further information on housing for students with disabilities can be found at http://housing.temple.edu/campus-living/students-with-disabilities.

Contacting Disability Resources and Services
Questions about disability accommodations and medical documentation should be forwarded to the DRS office. Information about DRS offices can be found at http://disabilityresources.temple.edu/contact.
