OPENING FALL 2013

MORGAN HALL
MITCHELL AND HILARIE MORGAN
RESIDENCE HALL AND DINING COMPLEX

TEMPLE MADE
It’s the opposite of an ivory tower.

A residence hall that connects you to the city—and the world.

Introducing the Mitchell and Hilarie Morgan Residence Hall and Dining Complex. Here, breathtaking views of Center City will inspire you to explore urban life, while high-tech amenities help you make your mark on the world. Blog wirelessly by the fireplace; hold a meeting in the lushly landscaped terrace; hop on the subway and hit the Avenue of the Arts. When you live in a place like Morgan Hall, you can’t help feeling like you’re part of the city…and maybe even something bigger.
Morgan Hall wasn’t just designed to connect you with the city; it was built as a gathering place for the Temple community. Whether you’re watching a movie in a lounge with your friends, participating in a campus program in one of the event spaces, or meeting new people in the dining hall, you won’t be able to live here without feeling connected to your fellow students.

Feel like getting away from it all? The greenery of the elevated terrace provides a peaceful retreat, and every suite includes its own kitchenette, living room and dining area.

Take a look at your extended campus: City Hall, Lincoln Financial Field, The Philadelphia Museum of Art, The National Constitution Center. It’s all right there at your feet, waiting to be explored. But like everything else at Temple, it’s what you make of it that counts.

Morgan Hall’s fully furnished apartments are designed to inspire learning, collaboration, and of course, socializing! Each four- or five-bed apartment includes two full bathrooms, a kitchenette, a dining area, and a living room with a 42-inch flat screen TV. Stay connected with wifi and Ethernet, and take advantage of computer and print stations throughout the complex. Have lots of stuff? Stash it in the room’s generous storage areas, and lock up your bike in the building’s dedicated bicycle storage space.

Downstairs, the dining hall features a variety of eateries, from a coffee shop to a diner, with two levels of indoor seating. Feel like dining al fresco? Grab a table on the sunny terrace, then work off your meal at Temple University Fitness across the street.

A study by Heschong Mahone Group showed that students performed better in buildings illuminated primarily by natural lighting.
In Fall 2013, returning sophomores, juniors and seniors will be eligible for spaces in Morgan Hall North, and incoming freshmen will be offered spaces in Morgan Hall South.

Juniors and seniors will also be able to reserve housing in the 1300 Residence Hall, Temple Towers and Elmira Jeffries buildings on a first-come, first-served basis.

You can learn more about the housing selection process, after January 1, 2013, by visiting www.temple.edu/housing/select-your-housing or by scanning this code.
